

Dr. Ezra B. Riber is honored to have been selected by his colleagues as one of the Top Doctors of the Midlands. It has been his privilege to work with many excellent healthcare providers during his 28 years of practice in South Carolina. The growth of Palmetto Pain Management is in many ways a result of the confidence that referring providers have in the evaluation and treatment of their patients.

At Palmetto Pain Management, the focus on quality care begins with a warm welcome and continues with the assurance that they are always offering the safest and most advanced treatments. The specialty of Pain Medicine has progressed far beyond the time when pain management focused on a “series of three injections” that needed to be repeated frequently. Interventional pain procedures and equipment are now designed to prolong the duration of pain relief with options such as radiofrequency rhizotomy and neuromodulation; these techniques can provide longer benefits for many arthritic and spinal conditions. In addition, a significant portion of the practice is devoted to treating patients with headaches and facial pain previously unresponsive to medications, injections and surgery.

Palmetto Pain Management has recently been enhanced by the addition of a second physician, Dr. Jennifer Stanislaus. Dr. Stanislaus is a highly-skilled, pain-fellowship trained anesthesiologist, and providers can be assured that their patients will continue to receive the same quality of care that they have come to expect from Palmetto Pain Management.

While Palmetto Pain Management offers many different office-based procedures, the majority of patient visits are for the management of pain with medication. Their team of providers will find the safest and most effective options while minimizing side effects. Drs. Riber and Stanislaus are both licensed to treat opioid dependence issues through the prescription of buprenorphine. Dr. Riber is board certified and Dr. Stanislaus is board eligible.

Referral through a provider is preferable for a chronic pain evaluation. Patients with opioid dependence or personal injury issues are welcome to contact Palmetto Pain Management directly for confidentiality. They are in network with the vast majority of carriers including Medicare and Tricare. They have also expanded their practice to include an office in Cumming, Georgia (northeast suburban Atlanta).
